The Student Union and Student Ambassador team were honoured to have invited Mr Malcom Au as the first CEO guest on 26th October 2020, to kick off “Dialogue with CEOs and Entrepreneurs”, a program aiming to provide Jubileans with a rare opportunity to converse with different business leaders so as to broaden their horizon and deepen their understanding of the workplace! The guest speaker this time is not only the former CEO of Campbell Soup Company, but he is also a Jubilean!

“Dialogue with CEOs and Entrepreneurs”

The meeting started blithely with chitchatting and scrumptious pastries generously treated by Mr Au, who then humbly shared his business and management experiences, and all students immediately sat up and took notice. Mr Au emphasized one vital key to success: career planning and opportunities are equally important. Without thoughtful career planning, we can hardly set a clear goal, while without opportunities, we will probably miss the spark to thrive. The student leaders also seized the golden chance to ask more about team building and leading, and Mr Au responded to all the questions patiently. Not only so, he even joked about his student life at BHJS!

At last, Mr Au encouraged our student leaders that young people should not look down on themselves; yet, with determination and passion for what they do, they can, too, have a promising future, despite the fast changing society. The participants left the meeting with their hearts full and stomachs filled. All participants enjoyed and reaped a lot from this light-hearted dialogue with the CEO.

We can't wait to be enlightened in the upcoming sessions by other CEOs and entrepreneurs! Stay tuned!
